For Immediate Release:

Panic Bomber's Discipline EP to be released March 16 on YYZ Records

Toronto, Ontario - March 1, 2010

YYZ Records is proud to announce the newest addition to the family, Panic Bomber. Hailing all the way from Miami, Florida, Richard Haig drops his sophomore release titled Discipline EP worldwide on March 16th.

Panic Bomber follows up his recent high-energy full-length Getting on My Mind with a four-on-the-floor stunner. The title track of the Discipline EP is enigmatic in that it balances an aggressive dark bass melodic theme with a relaxed, smoothed out chorus with subdued vocals and synths. The song takes the listener on a journey up to an early aggressive peak then builds back up for a more melodic final triumph. Contemplative lyrics which are at the same time not distracting from dance floor revelry.

"Can't Sleep" is an avant-pop falsetto-driven piece showcasing Panic Bomber's technical composition skills with arrangement for live performance horn section. High tempo, intense energy, and multiple unique sections make this piece a vacation for music dorks without abandoning the casual listener.

The EP wraps up with "Perfection and Grace," a downtempo sweet-melodied ditty clocking in at 109 BPM with a funky bass line and soaring keyboards perfect for making love to your old lady by. The chorus is comfortably familiar yet brand new for 2010. Perhaps the gem of the record, "Perfection and Grace," written and recorded in one day, proves Panic Bomber is capable of more than high-tempo dance floor bangers, but also has a softer side.

Altogether the Discipline EP strikes a contemplative lyrical chord while remaining DJ-friendly, making it perfect for both starting the party and listening to at 7am during the drunk drive home from the hottest exclusive international clubs in the world.
